Turn Down Fruit Case

The Canadian railways have declined assistance to B.C. fruit and vegetable growers by way of exemption from the 7 percent interim increase in freight rates which became effective across Canada this week.

In so doing, they brushed aside the suggestion made by the Hon. Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, at the recent public hearing in Ottawa, when he referred to the plight of B.C. fruit growers as an "extreme example" where the railways might consider—if representation from the industry so justified it—that not even the interim increase should be applied.

An appeal had been made to the Board of Transport Commissioners at the recent public hearing at Ottawa by B.C. Tree Fruits Limited calling for recognition of the predicament confronting the B.C. fruit industry, in that returns had been substantially reduced each season for the past three years and the growers could not afford to absorb any new increase in transportation charges.

Reference was made to the fact that the railways improved their financial position materially during 1955. Furthermore, it was pointed out that with the great majority of their tonnage moving within Western Canada, B.C. fruit growers do not yet enjoy full benefit from the freight rate equalization policy approved by the Federal Government in 1951, and that it is exceedingly unfair for any thought to be given to a new blanket increase being applied before fair and reasonable equalized commodity rates are approved by the Board and published by the railways for B.C. agricultural products in implementation of this policy.

Although the Chief Commissioner of the Board stated that it was the intention of the Board not to exempt anyone from the effect of the interim increase, a loophole had been provided by his suggestion that there might be cases such as fruit growers where the railways might be shortsighted to put in an increase even for an experimental period.

Following up the lead provided at the hearing, representatives of B.C. Tree Fruits Limited interviewed railway rate officials in Montreal late last week and were informed that no action would be taken towards providing relief for B.C. fruit and vegetables at this time.

Unless more favorable treatment can be negotiated with the railways in the interval, this leaves the matter open until September when the Board of Transport Commissioners will hold further hearings of the case. The Board is expected to hand down their final decision on the original application of the railways for a 15 percent increase, and whether "hold-downs" should be applied in certain cases. It is noteworthy that the Interstate Commerce Commission has granted a hold-down on fresh fruits and vegetables when awarding blanket increases to United States carriers in recent years.

Officials of B.C. Tree Fruits say they will not be satisfied to let this issue rest until September, and will do everything within their power to achieve a more favorable solution with as little delay as possible.

Honeymoon Couples — Take Note

The smartest bit of tourist promotion since Kelowna invented Ogopogo will be staged in Penticton tomorrow when the Junior Chamber of Commerce picks out a "Tourist Queen for the Day" and treats the queen and her king to the best of everything Penticton has.

Tonight, Jaycees will check auto courts and motels for newlywed couples. One couple will be chosen and taken for a grand style tour of the city.

Inaugurated last year, when Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cross of Vancouver were the lucky couple, the queen for a day stunt is designed to show tourists what they can do in Penticton and how welcome they are here.

The honeymooners will start off tomorrow morning by having breakfast with Mayor and Mrs. Oscar Matson.

Then they go off for a speedboat cruise of Okanagan Lake and a tour through the orchardland along the Jaycees' scenic route — including, of course, a stop at Munson's Mountain lookout.

FOR THE LAST TIME—There are a lot of changes going on daily in Penticton. But none will be any greater, no scene will be more altered in the immediate future, than the property at the south-east corner of Nanaimo and Martin, the site of the new recently-announced Loughheed Building. An attractively-designed new structure will soon rise on this scene above, working a mighty change in this section of the city, and replacing a long-standing empty eyesore. So look at it for the last time. It will soon be different.

TV Here By Spring

Television for the entire Okanagan Valley can confidently be predicted for next spring, with construction to start in the fall.

Such was the comment made to the Herald today by Roy G. Chapman, CKOK station manager.

Mr. Chapman explained that the Okanagan Valley Television Company Limited, a project jointly owned by the radio stations of Penticton, Kelowna, and Vernon has received a preliminary survey taken by RCA Victor Company, "which shows good possibilities of covering the valley, using one central station, and two satellite stations."

This main station, according to Mr. Chapman, would have a power of approximately 2,000 watts, while the two satellites, one at each end of the valley, will use a power of 500 watts.

Following approval by the Department of Transport and CBC, construction could start in the fall, and the valley's first TV be reaching the viewers by the spring.

Hopes were held for a long time that the actual start of operations could be this fall. But the fact that the board of the CBC will not be holding its next meeting until the fall will delay matters.

The recent survey shows good television reception in all major Okanagan centres with a simple "rabbit ear" or indoor antenna.

In most other and fringe areas reception should be available with the installation of the usual outdoor antennas, Mr. Chapman adds.

THERE'S SPEED IN THESE

NANAIMO—(BUP)—A predicted log race over 140 sea miles will attract about 200 cruisers to Nanaimo July 14, according to Commodore James Allan of Nanaimo Yacht Club.

It will mark the 25th annual International Cruiser races.

Almost Unanimous Vote For Gas Franchise At Oliver

Only about a third of the eligible voters in Oliver turned out yesterday in the village's by-election. Total eligible voters were 400 but 131 turned out at the polls.

Arthur Weeks with a vote of 76 took over Larry Evans' office as councillor. Mr. Evans was forced to resign with his departure to Whitehorse.

The other candidate in the running was William Kraler who received a total of 55 ballots in his favor.

At the same time Oliver ratepayers voted on a natural gas plebiscite.

A total of 115 people voted to have the Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. distribute natural gas in that district. Against the franchise were four ballots and two were spoiled.

Council Takes Quick Action On Its Dams

Quick action to study the condition of the Penticton Creek Number One dam was undertaken by civic officials following Tuesday's report from independent engineering surveys that the leakage from the dam should be examined.

Superintendent E. R. Gayfer and some of his associates visited the dam yesterday to study the condition at first hand.

Some members of city council individually have stated their views of the matter.

"I don't feel the situation is too serious," said Mayor C. Oscar Matson to the Herald yesterday, adding that in order to have first-hand information, they had agreed that Mr. Gayfer should go over it.

"I had Mr. Rolston of Associated Engineering in my office, when he brought in the report," continued His Worship, "and from what he then said, there was nothing to be alarmed about."

Alderman H. M. Geddes, chairman of the domestic water committee interviewed later, agreed with Mayor Matson. "I feel there is nothing in the condition of the Penticton Number One dam to worry about," he said, agreeing, however, with the mayor that immediate and first-hand information would be of value.

"We want to be doubly certain of the condition, so Superintendent E. R. Gayfer and members of his department made a trip to it," he added.

On his return last night, Superintendent Gayfer said he had been accompanied on the trip by (Continued on Page Six)

Kick Out Teamsters?

At a meeting held in the Okanagan-Falls Legion Hall yesterday, members of Kaleden Local No. 4 reorganized as a local of the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Union.

The Teamsters in this area have claimed publicly that they represent the employees in Kaleden Co-op. This meeting did not seem to support the case. Those present reaffirmed their confidence in the FFVWU and gave the Federation their unqualified support.

Officers elected to carry on the business of the local included the following: President, Shirley Fretz; vice-president, Helen Falfrey; recording secretary and secretary-treasurer, Ray Hawtree.

This represents the third local which has re-established itself as a Federation Local within the past three months.

Out of the twelve locals which originally comprised the FFVWU, one is no longer functioning and six have declared their support of the Federation in its current struggle with the Teamsters.

Russ Leckie, secretary-treasurer of the teamster-affiliated Federation and W. E. Darroch, secretary-treasurer of the teamsters' Local 48 and president of District Five, attended the Kaleden meeting but say they were expelled after they refused to sign membership cards in the "rebel local."

"Most of the people attending that meeting—and there weren't more than 12 or 14—were growers' wives who crossed picket lines in last year's strike," Leckie said.

"The rebels are nibbling away at small groups and claiming them as full locals."

Ald. MacCleave To Fly East Tomorrow

Tomorrow Alderman Elsie MacCleave leaves here to fly to Ottawa.

In the nation's capital she will take a civil defence staff orientation course.

Her present plans are for her to fly back to this city on July 20.

Critical Problem To Be Discussed Monday

To deal with the farm labor problem the National Employment Service in a first-time move has called a policy meeting in Kelowna on July 9.

Invited to the conference are the labor committee of the B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. and various NES placement officers in the Okanagan.

Hon. Kenneth Kiernan, minister of agriculture, is also expected to attend.

The Tree Fruits committee is composed of two members from each of the three BCFA District Councils and chairman G. H. Whittaker of Kelowna.

Representing the South Okanagan District Council are Avery King of Penticton and R. V. Bonnett of Oliver.

The BCFA committee had arranged to call a similar meeting, but the NES supersedes this.

Agenda for the conference has not been released.

Orchardists' Loan Policy To Improve?

"The door is not closed" on the possibility of low interest loans for farmers in the Okanagan Valley, believes District Horticulturist M. P. D. Trumppour.

This year special agricultural loans were instituted in the Fraser Valley whereby farmers can obtain loans at three percent interest from chartered banks.

In addition, that scheme features a longer repayment time on the principal borrowed.

The banks are protected by an overall guarantee of loans by the provincial government.

Last summer the regular five-year survey of farms and fruit acreage in the valley was carried out by the horticultural department.

The department has made these surveys regularly over the last 30 years.

Results of this survey should be available fairly soon.

It will reveal to some extent the trees lost by heavy frosts over the last five years.

Actions on loans for Okanagan farmers Mr. Trumppour feels rests on the data presently being assembled by the provincial government. This information has not yet been completed.

Last week two provincial officials visited the district.

R. P. Murray, provincial horticulturist, inspected the Penticton and Kelowna-Cawston area to get a general picture on how the industry is shaping up.

His inspection covered winter injury to trees, insect damage and general crop prospects.

The provincial markets commissioner, M. M. Gilchrist, also was here.

His office is concerned with the financial aspect of the farm picture.

This covers returns to farmers, expenses of farmers, and capital outlay to mention a few.

On Monday G. L. Landon, director of agriculture development and extension, is expected to be in Penticton.

His branch covers the farm labor field, and as well his visit in May he will probably deal with that matter when he is here.

Current Rainy Weather Improves Local Storage Water Situation

Hope that it will be possible to retain storage water in Penticton Creek reservoirs "at least until the end of the month" was expressed by Superintendent E. R. Gayfer to the Herald today.

Comparing the present situation with that of a year ago, he said that last year there had been sufficient free running water to last until July 30, when use of storage was commenced, and that due to the long, hot summer, some concern was felt with respect to its "lasting out", and necessitating use of the Okanagan Lake pumps.

This year the dry weather has come earlier, and caused some worries, but the present rainy weather has altered the picture considerably, so that use of storage water need not commence until at least the end of the present month, with perhaps, a better chance of its holding out owing to the greater amount of (Continued on Page Six)

Glenmore Passes Censure Motion

Tree Fruits has again been censured for "disastrous" apple prices.

Wednesday night, after two hours of wrangling, Glenmore local, on a motion sponsored by D. M. Wilson, endorsed such censure by a vote of 20 to 19.

South and East Kelowna growers passed a similar motion some time ago.

Complete and independent change of operations by R. P. Walrod, manager of the co-op selling agency, was urged by Mr. Wilson.

Chairman of the board of governors, Jim Snowball, vigorously objected to the motion.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is expected to fly back to Canada tonight from the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in London.

It's Our Power

The momentous meetings going on at the present time between federal and provincial authorities dealing with the Mica power dam question, mean more to the people of this immediate area than many may suppose.

Much is being made of the positions of the three governments involved—British Columbia, Ottawa, and Washington, although the U.S. capital appears only indirectly. Each group, while presumably seeking the best interests of the people they govern, is jockeying for a position that can, later, enable them to tell their electors: "Well, the other fellow wouldn't but we did it, for you," and use that as a free pass to win a further term.

That is a blunt statement. But an examination of the facts will show that political expediency will have considerable weight in this, as it has in other items.

The question then arises whether the interests of the people will be, intentionally or otherwise, shuffled into a somewhat secondary position by this politicking. It is to be hoped not, but the people themselves must be on their guard, must make known their wishes, and certainly must look to their own interests.

And these interests, in this southern interior of British Columbia are paramount. Adequate development of Mica, with power costs down to a few miles per horsepower, could bring huge industrial development to the whole of the area in, roughly, a 150 mile radius from Revelstoke. And such industries would be smoothly silent, devoid of the smoking chimneys.

This cheap power could also mean other developments—the feasibility of pumping water to upland areas now beyond the reach of gravity irrigation. Such developments are no dream; they have been proven realities in the State of Washington, and could be so, here.

Whether or not Penticton, Kelowna, Kamloops, or Vernon actually get factories within their own individual boundaries is, actually, a minor competitive matter. For no matter where these great new developments locate, they will inevitably benefit all of us within that same 150 mile area.

And by "all of us" we mean every man, woman and child in that area—every worker, every fruit grower, storekeeper, and small business man, as well as the "big fellows." Actually, the wage-earner and farmer stand to benefit more directly than do some of the others, for to the worker the industrialization means more jobs, steadier employment, and a generally better earning power.

To the farmer, it means not only cheaper irrigation in some areas, but quicker, and much more receptive markets for what he produces.

Thus, it would seem, this Mica power belongs, not only to the people of Canada, of British Columbia, but particularly, and peculiarly to the people right here in the Interior, in Yale-Cariboo-Okanagan. It is our very own power.

And because it is our power, we hope the governments won't waste it playing election-to-come tag with it.

The Same Yesterday

"In this town the price of wood rises almost steadily, and the only question is, how much higher is it to be this year than it was last."

Sounds like a current note on inflation, perhaps, but before the local fuel men jump to the conclusion that we're singling them out for unwelcome attention (they're no worse than anybody else and, come to think of it, their prices are comparatively better), we might venture to stress that the above quotation is not from current gleanings. It outdates our half-century files. It stretches back, indeed, for almost an exact century.

The sentence is from Henry David Thoreau who, in his solitary retreat beside a New England pond, wrote his great work "Walden," since established as a classic.

A hundred years ago, it seems, the problems were not greatly different. And this makes us feel momentarily better.

Or, come to think of it a bit longer, perhaps it makes things worse all round, after all.

What Lies Ahead

Higher prices—a creeping rise in the cost of living to new record highs—is a strong probability for the consumer to reckon with in the last half of this year.

There's a good chance, however, that reckon with it he can, if he's a persistent bargain hunter. Because the competition will be high, the supply of most goods ample, and the promotion urge strong in the breast of the retailer.

This is no paradox. It stems from two things:

Costs have been rising steadily for some time and seem sure to continue to, reflecting rising wage scales and the delayed aftermath of past inflation.

Increasing production capacity, on the other hand, and the keener rivalry for the consumer's dollar will make profit margin cutting and mark-downs a continuing fact of business life.

For services the story is different. Signs point to still higher costs.

Cost of living seems sure to go higher this fall.

Personal income totals seem sure to rise, barring such disasters as long strikes or a breakdown in the economic or international picture generally.

At mid-year the consumer shows definite signs of concentrating on paying off some of the huge debt load he shouldered in the 1955 buying spree. Merchants and manufacturers alike hope that in the coming months the consumer will be out from under much of the burden and ready to start over again.

Auto makers are especially hopeful. They are planning alluring models—apparently with higher price tags—to revive their market.

Most of us, above all, seem to be getting used to the rolling type of recession known since the war—the readjustment in a few industries at a time and in rotation—and less likely to panic when one kind of business turns soft.

Certainly unless he's one of those out of a job at mid-year, the average citizen is still buying, still planning, still going into debt, still keeping up his payments. He's just a little more cautious today and less exuberant.

NEWS FROM Victoria

By J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA — Premier Bennett continues delightfully vague about when the next B.C. general election will come. He's the man who'll set the date, and he will pick that date to suit the best interests of Social Credit, no matter how much he talks about an election when, as he says, it'll be in the best interests of all the people of British Columbia.

Because the election might be this year, or next year, or not until the year after that, as the Premier so mysteriously puts it, his political enemies have to be ready, aye, always ready.

And so it is that the election campaign has actually started in this province. All the opposing politicians are out making hay—and, as a result, we hear a fair amount of political nonsense being talked in loud voices.

One of these days — far, far away — perhaps we'll have a more sensible, democratic way of setting election dates. It will, or should be, done by the people, in the Constitution Act — a certain date every four years, at the same time keeping the British safeguard of a defeat of the government on the floor of the House, followed by another election. Setting of election dates is vastly too important to be left to the political whims of one man — even though that man be so important a man as a premier.

But as to all the political poppings-off we hear these days: The premier insists the defeat of Social Credit in Saskatchewan was, in very truth, a great victory for Social Credit. Thus does the Premier whistle to keep up his courage, and attempt to confuse his political opponents.

CCF leader Robert Strachan runs about saying Social Credit spent $600,000 fighting the election in Saskatchewan — and Mr. Strachan is most suspicious as to where such tons of gold came from. This is just a wild guess on Mr. Strachan's part. He has no way of knowing how much Social Credit spent — SC'ers are not talking out loud about such touchy matters as campaign funds, they being, as with all political parties, very hush-hush.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing cries out in some anguish that the SC government is engaging in what he calls "squadernism," which word is not a Laingism, as might first appear, but is to be found in the dictionary. Mr. Laing bursts out this in indignation because the government is spending $100,000 on a "Buy B.C. Produce" campaign, to help the farmers, Mr. Bennett says. Mr. Laing is infuriated because in the newspaper advertising appears a large picture of a handsome, smiling W. A. C. Bennett. Mr. Laing is quite sure Mr. Bennett is not out to help the farmers as much as he's out to help his own political cause — and, at the taxpayers' expense.

Says Mr. Laing: "This is no advertisement for food, but purely political propaganda for Bennett!" It's all very well to have differences of political opinion, but B.C.'s politicians engage themselves in far too much petty, par "san bickering, which may be all very entertaining, but it does add up to a contempt, on the part of the public, for politics and politicians, which is too bad, for politics is the basis of our form of government and politicians are those people to whom we entrust our most important business.

BOOKS

By United Press

James Joyce has been dead for more than 15 years. But there still is no agreement among Joycean scholars on just what he was shooting at in his works. The analyses of them, and the painfully complicated and frequently conflicting interpretations of their symbolism, flow on unflinchingly.

The latest book on the most controversial literary figure of the century comes from two leading Joycean scholars — Marvin Magalaner, assistant professor at the College of the City of New York, and Richard M. Kahn, professor of English at the University of Louisville.

Joyce: The Man, the Work, the Reputation (New York University Press) synthesizes the criticisms of Joyce's writings since he was introduced to the literary world through his poems in 1907. With the aid of hundreds of items, including letters, never before brought together, the authors reassess Joyce's personality as well as the interpretations of his works.

The critics spent years interpreting "Ulysses" and more years probing into the murky depths of "Finnegans Wake."

Magalaner and Kahn bring out an interesting tendency now to go back to Joyce's earliest works in search of symbolism and intricate structure.

John Hersey, whose stark reporting of A-bomb horror made Hiroshima one of the most cogent books of this decade, has turned to an entirely different setting in his latest book, A Single Pebble (Knopf).

This is the story of a young American engineer who takes a long journey down the Yangtze river in a cargo-carrying junk. His original mission is to locate a suitable site for a dam in order to harness the great river for hydro-electric purposes. Slowly and subtly he finds himself drawn into the ancient pattern of Chinese river life.

The junk is hauled along its course by some forty trackers who struggle along the river bank in precisely the same manner as trackers have done on the Yangtze for thousands of years. Gradually the nameless and tattered coolies become important actors in a quiet but dramatic tale of love, suffering and petty jealousies against an age-old background of infinite patience and fatalism.

There are the middle-aged junk owner; his young wife, tied to her husband by the inflexible code of duty; the head tracker, secretly loved by the young woman but dedicated to the river. These hidden tensions are revealed by Hersey in plainissimo, and reach a climax only in a moment of desperation, courage and tragedy.

Throughout the story is the continual promise of important happenings which never quite materialize, and this reader was left unsatisfied.

Mona Lisa: The Prince of Taranto (Dial) constitutes the first three volumes of what we are told is to be a 21-volume work, presented as a heretofore unknown manuscript by Francois Villon.

The first three volumes are devoted entirely to the insanely complicated politics of the 15th century kingdom of Naples, which had four claimants for queen and five potential kings. Except for an occasional author's note, there is no mention whatever of Mona Lisa, but Thayer vows he will manage to get her grandfather born somewhere in the next three volumes.

These books will be touted with reason — as among the bawdiest in circulation. They also embrace one of the hardest-to-follow stories that has been produced since the great Russians laid down their quills.

The problem is not so much that more than half of the plentiful women in these books are named Maria, or that their escorts are apt to boast such closely similar names as Caldora, Cantelmo and Caracolo. What is difficult is the fact that the story also concerns properties with names like Aversia, Avellino and Amalfi which change hands at the drop of a body and confer their names on the holder of the moment.

The inevitable suspicion that this is a vastly elaborate practical joke is dispelled by the evidence that Thayer has researched his subject with tireless devotion. As a work of tongue-in-cheek scholarship, Mona Lisa is as impressive as it is incredible.

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — Next fall a girl from Hollywood will go home to Hong Kong to star in a picture. She is Judy Dan, who left the island colony four years ago to come to glamorous Hollywood.

Judy Dan was "Miss Hong Kong" then, a candidate in the Miss Universe contest. She won third place in the contest and a studio contract along with it. She remained in Hollywood.

Here's what happened then:

Soon she was appearing with Richard Widmark in "Destination Gobi." She was the only woman in the picture, but her role was not a big one. Then came "Flight To Hong Kong" in which she played an airline stewardess. But her biggest break came as one of the favorite wives of the King of Siam in the colossal musical "The King and I."

Judy is Judy Dan professionally only, now. She fell in love and married — not a movie mogul, but a young local architect, Tom Woo of West Los Angeles. They have a daughter, born last August.

"I'm still working toward one of those big mansions with a swimming pool," she said, laughing. So far she has gained a seven-room apartment in an ultra-modern apartment building which she and Tom own.

The roles, however, are not as few and far apart as it would seem. She has also appeared in several filmed television shows — the "Cisco Kid" series, the Jackie Cooper series, the "Crossroads" series and the Dan Duryea series "China Smith."

HER TRAINING

Then there has been avid dramatic training — two and a half years at George Pepperdine College studying drama and appearing in three school plays and now she plans to enter the famed Pasadena Playhouse, the dramatic school and theatre in the nearby San Fernando Valley.

"Actually, my face is seen around the world," she said. "That happened this way: I have done some photographic modeling. One assignment was for Pan American Airways: I was dressed in a colorful native Hong Kong dress and looked very good. So the company used the pictures for posters advertising vacations in Hong Kong and distributed the posters around the world. I know they went to practically every country because I've received fan mail from every corner of the globe asking if I'm still single."

She knows many movie people professionally, but few of them privately. There isn't much time.

"We have our social life mostly with friends of Tom and a few of my own. Maureen Hingert, from Ceylon, and Marie Tsien, another Chinese girl, both aspiring movie stars, are very close friends. Recently I gave a birthday party for Tom at our house and both of them came."

The trip to Hong Kong for the forthcoming picture will be "sad one, in a sense, for Judy because

The Garden Gate

Canadian lily experts are leading the world in the development of new varieties of lilies, says Sandy Best in an article, "Lilies for Canadian Gardeners," appearing in the July issue of Canadian Homes and Gardens. "Much of the great surge of modern lily breeding started over 40 years ago," he comments, and today, all over Canada, garden lovers "are growing a host of sturdy new hybrid lilies — and in brilliant red, pink and yellow tones."

Best, himself an internationally known lily grower, describes the work of such Canadian garden experts as Miss Isabella Preston of Georgetown, Ontario, who, many years ago, became world famous for her new lily creations in the world; Dr. F. L.

Skinner of Manitoba, who has developed the blood-red Dunkirk lily; Percy Byam of Toronto whose new lily hybrids are internationally recognized.

For non-expert Canadian lily-growers, Sandy Best gives some hints on growing lilies. "Most of the new hybrids will flourish under a wide range of conditions. They generally flourish in full sun and in a reasonably well drained soil, and like partial shade." He warns that lily bulbs must be handled like perishable living roots, planted promptly on arrival.

Also, in his Canadian Homes and Gardens feature, Best gives a list of 12 good lilies which will suit Canadian gardens.

Record Reviews

NEW YORK, (UP) — You may think that no phase of the genius of Mozart has been overlooked in this "Mozart Year," but you are wrong. Up until now, no one paid much attention to Mozart, the master of the organ. The omission is repaired with a recorded performance of all 17 of his sonatas for organ and orchestra.

The performer was Richard Ellsasser, with the Hamburg Chamber Orchestra, Arthur Winograd conductor (MGM-E3363-E3364). These works can not be listed among the purest examples of the great Mozart. Indeed, a few sound quite dated to the modern ear. Yet they're Mozartian in their very essence; they convey a little-known facet of the many-faceted man.

Ellsasser's contribution to the recorded Mozart literature is a notable one although, of course, it can not even be compared with that of Walter Gieseking in recording all of the Mozart works for piano solo. The 11th record in the popular series has now been issued (Angel-35078) and, like the others, it brings to light little known music of consummate delight and power. This series is the top achievement of the Mozart year.

Epic's admirable series of Mozart recordings under the direction of the eminent Viennese Mozart authority, Dr. Bernard Paumgartner, is advanced with the first and seventh violin concertos, with Arthur Grumiaux as soloist and the Vienna Symphony Orchestra (Epic-LC3230).

she will have to leave her little daughter, Judith, in Hollywood.

"But it will be a happy trip, too, since I'll be going home." Judy had appeared in Hong Kong pictures before coming to Hollywood. Her father is a producer and director for a film company there. The new picture which Judy will make in the fall, however, will not be for his firm.

THE MEMORY WILL LINGER

The PRC show of July 2 is over, "The Captains and the Kings Depart," but the memory lingers.

Most poignant, I think, is the memory of the little "Pal-o-Mine" foal or filly, being dragged around from 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. and probably "then some."

Toward evening its head hung low, while through shame for the human race, or through fatigue, I do not know, probably much of both, with a gaping wound on the inside of his "off" hock, with a strip of hide still hanging, a dry, angry sore.

These accidents will happen, but why subject the little animal to so much suffering in public? Again and again, through the long and weary day, in company with the pale framework of its mother, it was paraded into the ring. Is civilization advancing or are we? I am glad our dumb (?) friends do not express their opinion of it.

I, who have seen the heights to which humanity can rise and, the unspeakable horror of the depths to which they can fall, could not help but feel sorry for the little filly, and its mother, who could not help it. How true these words, "The more I see of humanity, the more I love my dog."

The judge, the officials, vets, surgeons, M.D. and RSPCA let them be paraded indifferent to the suffering of the little filly.

You may ask, "Why didn't you interfere?"

"At my age I am told I am only a — old fool, anyway, and felt too bitter to speak about it. In my own personal code I am hard on my judgment, and rigid in my code, and there is also tradition. The memory will always linger."

Tea And Coffee Served At Senior Citizens' Club By Various Women's Groups

A unique plan of co-operation among 26 women's organizations within this city has developed into a successful project which has provided pleasure to the community's senior citizens and given much satisfaction to those contributing to its promotion.

Once each month for the past several months volunteer representatives from these groups have visited the Penticton Seniors' House on Westminster Avenue and served afternoon refreshments to those enjoying its facilities. The plan, which was organized through the house committee of the senior club, assures tea hour company for the senior citizens practically each week day the year around.

Many members of the Old Age Pensioners Club have been visiting their comfortable little club house where games, reading and friendly get-togethers in a home-like atmosphere are the order of the day. Having the members of the various women's organizations come for a visit and serve their tea and coffee has added much enjoyment to the seniors' hours spent at their club house.

Attendance at the club house was best during the winter months; brighter days have lessened the daily attendance. Owing to the smaller current attendance, it was felt that the club house would remain open as usual during July and August but no arrangements would be made for serving refreshments at any specified time. The senior citizens are welcome to use the kitchen facilities and make a cup of tea or coffee themselves.

The house committee of the club wishes to express a sincere "thank-you" to all the members and officers of the numerous women's groups who so ably assisted with the tea hour program. The hope is expressed that all groups who originally accepted the committee's invitation to participate in the project will resume their activities following the summer holidays.

Valley - Wide Interest In Feist - Ingram Ceremony

PEACHLAND — A wedding of valley-wide interest was solemnized in the First Baptist Church, Kelowna, when Eva Louise Ingram, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ingram of Westbank, exchanged marriage vows with Richard Feist, of Penticton, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Feist of Kelowna, at a double-ring candle-light ceremony. The Rev. B. A. Wingblade was the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her ballerina-length, white lace gown which featured a very full, three-tiered lace skirt and fitted bodice with shawl neckline. Her fingertip veil, with deep lace edging was held in place by a head-dress of net and flowers, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

The three bridal attendants were dressed similarly in ballerina-length, embroidered net; Mrs. Douglas Harding as her sister's maid of honor and Miss Sylvia Duzsik in pink, and the bride's cousin, Miss Kathleen Ingram, in blue. Wreaths of daisies to match their gowns were worn as headpieces and all three carried nosegays of white daisies.

W. Seddon, of Penticton, acted as groomsmen and Frank Feist and Douglas Harding were ushers.

The church had been beautifully decorated for the ceremony by Mrs. P. Harding, with peonies, delphinium and syringa. Mrs. C. W. Buzzell, Westbank, provided the wedding music and during the signing of the register, Mrs. W. E. Clements, of Peachland, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Following the ceremony the reception for the 140 guests was held in the Aquatic ball room where J. A. Maddock of Westbank proposed the toast to the bride and K. Fulk, of Peachland, toasted the bridal attendants.

Presiding at the urns were Mrs. L. B. Fulk, of Peachland, Mrs. K. H. Stewart, Mrs. T. B. Reece and Mrs. H. B. Ewer all of Westbank.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake and serviteurs included Dolores Mash and Shariene Cousins of Peachland; Claire Stafford, Joan Ingram, bride's cousins, Bobbi Pritchard, Mrs. M. Koga and Mrs. P. Weddell.

For their brief honeymoon across the line, the bride chose a dress of green floral pattern on white, green accessories and with it she wore a pill box hat and duster top coat. The young couple will make their home in Penticton. Mrs. Feist was an employee at Fulk's General Store, Peachland, for two years before her marriage and has gained a host of friends in the district.

Out of town guests included, Mrs. Brian Jones and Kathy, of Kamloops; R. Packard, Langley Prairie; Mrs. Frank Seddon and Bob, W. Seddon, Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Connell all of Penticton; many from Peachland and Westbank.

Rose, Richards Rap Home Runs

Tommy Rose of Love's Lunch took a long time getting out of his hitless rut, but he finally did, and in flashy fashion.

Rose whacked out a grand-slam homer for his first hit of the year Wednesday as Love's Lunch beat Sport Shop 13-1. The lunchmen are now only one point behind leading Naramata in the Babe Ruth baseball league.

Rose's homer accounted for four of the five runs Love's Lunch pushed across in a third-inning rally. The team blasted another five runs in the sixth and one in the fourth.

Allan Richards, starting pitcher for Love's Lunch, amply redeemed his being relieved on the mound, by driving in four runs with a two-run first-inning homer, a triple in the third, and a double in the sixth.

Richards walked four men in the first inning to give Sport Shop an unearned run—the only run the sportsmen mustered.

Hartley Hatfield took over to blank Sport Shop on two hits. Hatfield gave up singles to Larry Lund and Dave Stockford, walked only one, and struck out 10.

Loser was Lawrence Falcum, who stayed the full seven innings and was nailed for 13 hits. Falcum fanned eight batters and walked three.

Winner of the wrist watch given as a gate prize was Cliff Henderson. F. J. Lachina won two smorgasbord tickets, Herb Leroy a $5 dry-cleaning certificate, and D. P. O'Connell a picnic thermos.

Tonight, Naramata takes on the Sport Shop in an attempt to keep one jump ahead of Love's Lunch.

Thomson Wins British Open

HOVLAKE, Eng.—(UP)—Peter Thompson, a 26-year-old Australian, won the British Open Golf Championship for the third consecutive year today when he shot a final round 74 for a total of 286.

It was the first time since the tournament was made a 72-hole affair in 1892 that a golfer ever has won the title three times in a row.

Although his fourth and final round was his worst one, Thomson had a three-stroke lead over Flory Van Donck of Belgium, who carded a final round 74 for an aggregate of 289.

Thomson went out in 37, two-over par, and came home in one over par 37. He had shot a 72 this morning in the third round to go with the two one-under-par 70's he carded in the first two rounds.

Four strokes back of the winner came Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City, who had a final round 70 for a total of 290.

Summer Bowlers Offered Prizes

SUMMERLAND—George Williams and Shirley Burnwell have won prizes in the hidden score bowling contests started two weeks ago at the revamped Kingpin Bowladrome in Summerland.

The Bowladrome, sold by former owner Rod Van to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Fell of Vancouver, has been almost entirely renovated with new equipment installed and alleys reconditioned.

The hidden score competition and formation of the Kit-Kat league are among new ideas being started by the owners to promote interest in summer bowling.

The former is a four-team league of school students. The Kits are under 14 years of age, and the Kats are over 14. Experienced bowlers come out each league night to assist with scoring and to coach the beginners.

The hidden score contest, a number known only to the managers, is sealed in an envelope and opened at the end of the week's play.

The person bowling the nearest score to the number wins a prize donated by a local merchant. First winner was Miss Burnwell, who received a pinup lamp. Mr. Williams won a pair of bowling shoes after a play-off game with Bob MacDonald.

Both men made scores of 201 during regular play.

Long Lay-Off For Cricket Coming Up

Naramata's cricket players have two weeks to lean back and gloat over their four straight victories this season.

A break in the Spencer Cup schedule, caused by Kelowna cricket club's difficulties in getting a team, gives the Naramata team nothing to do until July 22, when it takes on Vernon again.

Naramata beat Vernon twice this season and won exhibition victories over Trail and Calgary. Trail returns for an exhibition game August 18 and a Vancouver team will be up sometime in August.

Kelowna early this year warmed up the cricket team was short of players but club officials felt that when soccer season ended enough cricket turned soccer players would rejoin the team to bring it up to full strength.

So far there hasn't been any word from Kelowna.

Bo Winger Takes Lead In Canadian Open Tourney

ARNOLD PALMER OF LATROBE, PA., smiles and wraps his arms tightly around the Gold Cup he won at last year's Canadian Open Golf championship. This year the smile is gone and Palmer's grip on the trophy is being pried apart. Bo Winger of Odessa, Tex., is leading the tournament by two strokes with a 65 score. Palmer, with 71, is way, way down the list.

MONTREAL—(BUP)—Bo Winger, a Texas tornado, held a two stroke lead over a par-busting field in the second round of the Canadian Open Golf championship today with a record-equalling 65.

The affable, 33-year-old Winger of Odessa, Tex., whose last win was the Kansas City open, was unbeatable yesterday from tee-to-green. He shot a one-under-par 35 front nine to card a brilliant back nine that included six birdies and three pars.

His 65 over the 6,665-yard, 36-hole par Beaconsfield course equalled Ellsworth Vines' 10-year-old mark set in this same tournament.

It was also good for a two-stroke edge over four other pros bunched in second place with 67's—Dow Finsterwald, Bedford Heights, Ohio; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Art Wall, Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa.; and Paul Harvey, Bolton, Mass.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., last year's champion, was far down the list with a 71.

Three others, amateur Bob Staats, Elmsford, N.Y.; Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.; and Dick Turner, San Angelo, Tex., were three strokes off the pace with 68's, and five others were bunched with 69's. In all, 38 pros and amateurs clipped strokes off standard figures during the first day's action in the $15,000 classic.

"I didn't think much of my front nine," Winger, the former Oklahoma City pro said. "But I was quite satisfied with my back nine," he added with a grin.

Winger started off in "ordinary" fashion, matching par for the first four holes and then bogeying the fifth. And then for the next 13 holes he bogeyed everyone but the 7th, 8th, 12th, 14th and 16th.

"I was hitting them real good off the tee and my approach shots were setting in there just right," he said. "My putting wasn't anything spectacular, but then I didn't have any putts over ten feet."

Wall, a slim, quiet pro who boasts a record number of 34 holes-in-one, was one of seven to eagle the 488-yard, par five 12th hole. In all, seven other eagles were recorded in the blistering first round.

Mayer, a vitamin-chewing shot-maker, equalled Wall's 34-39-67, which included only one bogey and six birds. Finsterwald, third leading money maker along golf's gold trail, felt he could do better than his five-under-par 67.

The slender, 26-year-old Finsterwald was slightly erratic, shooting two bogeys, five birdies and an eagle.

"I missed three or four putts for playable birdies, but I guess I kicked too much because I holed out a couple of long putts too. This is a real fine course and I think it will play shorter during the next three days if the weather stays as nice as this."

Lew Hoad Winner In All-Aussie Final For Tennis Crown

By ROBERT C. DOWSON
United Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, Eng.—(UP)—Lew Hoad of Australia established himself as the world's best amateur tennis player today when he won the Wimbledon men's singles championship by defeating his countryman, Ken Rosewall, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. A capacity crowd of 15,000 which included Princess Margaret, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden of England and Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia watched the all-Australian final.

FIRST FOR HOAD
This was Hoad's first Wimbledon singles championship and returned to Australia the big silver trophy won by Frank Sedgman in 1952. The triumph also put Hoad in position for a $100,000 professional offer in the U.S. next winter. He had considered such an offer last year but changed his mind and decided to remain amateur another year.

Hoad's power, both on service and ground strokes, was the deciding factor in this battle between the two Aussie 21-year-olds. "Whiz Kids" who had beaten Americans to reach the final. Rosewall, master of the delicate lob and the excellent backhand, won only the second set when his game reached its peak.

ROSEWALL DISCOURAGED
Rosewall appeared discouraged after dropping the opening set and winning only two games. But he steadied his game from the start of the second set and went ahead 3-1 by breaking Hoad's service with some of the most remarkable ground-covering feats in the match.

Hoad narrowed the lead to 4-3 by breaking service when a net ball dropped in his favor. After another exchange of service, Rosewall clinched it in the 10th game when Hoad made three errors and double-faulted.

TOO MUCH POWER
Hoad's power cut many rallies short in the third set and Rosewall began netting on returns. Rosewall fought back from a 1-3 deficit to go ahead 5-4, but Hoad served a love game, went ahead 6-5 with some remarkable retrieving on Rosewall's service and then clinched the set with another love game.

Rosewall, undaunted, raced off to a 4-1 in the fourth set as Hoad netted three times and was pulled out of position for a placement in losing his service in the fourth game.

And once again, Hoad's booming service helped him come from behind. He served a love game, which included two aces, broke Rosewall's service with excellent placements, and then tied the set at 4-4 with the help of two unreturnable serves.

At this point, Rosewall realized his cause was dim. He netted twice and hit out twice on his own service in the ninth game, and then netted the final point on Hoad's service.

Host winds hampered both players throughout the match, which was played with sunshine peeping out from behind a heavy overcast.

In women's doubles, Fay Muller and Daphne Seeny of Australia reached the final by upsetting defending champions Angela Mortimer and Ann Shilcock of England, 6-4, 6-2.

Hot-Weather Curling And Football Starting This Weekend In Nelson

NELSON—The boys with the brooms and the boys with the bruises meet this weekend in Nelson. The occasion—the opening of Calgary Stampede's summerlong football training camp and the opening, July 9, of the week-long Nelson Midsummer Bonspiel.

The dates didn't coincide by coincidence. The Western Interprovincial Football Union team was invited by the bonspiel committee to train in Nelson so that the bonspiel could offer its entrants something extra to see when not curling.

BIGGEST ENTRY
The bonspiel, now in its 12th year, has drawn the biggest entry in its history. A total of 92 rinks from five Canadian provinces and two states of the United States—and even from north of the Arctic circle—have signed up for the bonspiel's four events.

Of these 20 are ladies' rinks and 72 men's.

Vancouver leads the list with 15 rinks entered and Edmonton is second with eight. A Sault Ste. Marie rink is the only one from Ontario.

CURLING AND EVERYTHING
The main group of the curlers will be arriving this weekend at the same time as the majority of the football players.

Besides curling and watching football players go through their drill, visitors will be able to take on a full slate of dancing, fishing, golfing and sight-seeing.

Aquatic Club Out To Win Own Regatta

Penticton's Aquatic club members go into serious training Tuesday for the swimming and diving events of the club's annual regatta to be held August 25.

There's to be no more padding around strengthening muscles, said a swimming coach Mrs. June Bird. From now on competitors will be trying to better their times.

About 40 are expected to show up, including Dick Mascotto who is better known as a hockey player than a swimmer.

Mrs. Bird invites all swimming and diving prospects to turn out Tuesday at the club's Skaha lake headquarters. And bring along a stopwatch.

The club's greatest need right now is for stopwatches; either donated or loaned.

The club would also like to get the names of swimmers interested in competing at the Vernon regatta to be held later this month.

Mrs. Bird will register them for the regatta.

Oh, The Sunny Okanagan

A couple of weeks ago, the Skaha Lake tennis club's annual doubles tournament was delayed a whole week by rain.

Shortly after that an Okanagan Mainline Baseball league game between Summerland and Penticton was postponed a week.

Tuesday, a Little League game between the Elks and the Lions was called off—rain. Last night another Summerland-Penticton baseball game was cancelled—rain. And a Legion-Lions Little League game was rescheduled—rain.

Somebody should tell the tourist bureau.

All Vees Want Is A Good Sked

Penticton Vees, with their own home situation still unsettled, will go to Kamloops Sunday to help settle the affairs of the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League.

Treasurer Tommy Osborne and publicity chairman Grant King will be the team's delegates to the OSAHL meeting. President Bill Nicholson will be tied up at a convention here this weekend.

"We haven't outlined any definite program to present to the league," Nicholson said. "All we really want is a decent schedule. We'll worry about putting our other affairs in order first."

FORE!

This poem was written by C. Drake now a member of the Kelowna Golf Club. Mr. Drake was a member of our club for many years when he lived here with his daughter Mrs. Percy Downton. He was 76 years old on May 20, 1956.

GOLF AT PENTICTON
Oh worse than average golfer Watch for Penticton's six. I'll get your goat completely And prove your skill is nix.

I played this hole last Tuesday And did it in fifteen. What happened? Almost everything. That any golfer's seen.

I sliced my drive to start with. It landed in the rough. It took two strokes 'ere I got out Says I, "Good-night, that's tough."

Believe me, that was nothing I went from bad to worse, I dubbed more shots, but being dumb I couldn't even curse.

At last I hit a good one But wasn't it a pull. It landed in the rough again My cup of woe was full.

At least I really thought it was But when I wound that pill. 'Twas in a hole beneath a tree That tree is weeping still.

Under the weeping willow tree The angry golfer stands His ire immense, his five held tense Within his shaking hands.

One mighty swat, the ball moved not. Another hit the trunk. One more hooray—the ball's away. It's in the trap! Oh, bunk.

It took three more to reach the green And then I had three putts. If I can't beat Penticton's six I think that I'll go nuts.

PARIS—(UP)—The world boxing committee announced today it considers Archie Moore, Floyd Patterson and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson as the principal challengers for the heavyweight title vacated by Rocky Marciano.

Kaminski Cops Fifth Victory

Lorraine Kaminski, with almost monotonous efficiency, won her fifth straight softball game last night in Peachland as Penticton's senior B Ramblers shut out the Peachland girls team 4-0.

She tries for two more wins this weekend. Last night was the third time the Ramblers met and defeated the Peachland girls.

Lorraine walked only one Peachland batter and gave up five hits while striking out 13 of the 21 girls she faced. The Ramblers, on the other hand, batted out 15 hits and had only one strikeout.

Joyce Turk rapped out a first-inning single that scored Bernice Gale and Bernice followed it up in the second by knocking a hard double to bring home Martha Choukalos.

Lorraine and catcher Edna Hugo got base hits in the third inning to score Stu Dew and hits by Lorraine and Joyce Turk brought home Marilee Baltey with the Ramblers final run in the seventh. On Sunday, the girls take on the Sunbeam Braid team from Vancouver in a double-header at Kiwanis park on Edmonton Ave.

Games start at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Three visitors were present, Mrs. A. J. McLean, Cascade, B.C., Mrs. Barrie McCall of Costa Mesa, Calif., and Mrs. Susan Vanciel of Hamilton, Ont.

The reports were given of the provincial convention held in Vancouver and of the rally which was held at the Falls in May by Mrs. M. Phelps and Mrs. E. M. Hall, respectively.

Plans for two baking sales were completed, these to take place on July 14 and August 11.

The raffle was won by Mrs. A. Duncan.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. R. Mallory and Mrs. C. Hall.

Assistant Superintendent E. C. Spiller and Irrigation Foreman R. Dennis, and that a series of tests had been made.

"We made these tests and took a series of measurements, and it is now my intention to plot this on plans of the cross-section of the dam. That will give us some information regarding what may be happening.

"However, there has been water coming out of the spot mentioned by Mr. Rolston for the past several years. And so far, we've been unable to pin down the origin of it.

"Any earth dam, such as this, if you dig into it, has water in the earth wall, and water is always gradually seeping through it. But the dam is so designed that the water comes out on the downstream surface," Mr. Gayfer explained.

"The dam, while porous, is not sufficiently so to be in any danger, so long as the water seeping does not wash out the binding material that holds the earth wall together. Thus, an earth dam is not absolutely water tight."

The Pentiction Number One dam is, in this regard, no different to any other, and so long as no violent or sudden change takes place such a dam can go on "leaking" for many years. It is only when a marked change is noted that there may be cause for concern.

"This Pentiction Number One dam, like all others used by this and other communities, is given a check by the Water Rights Branch," Mr. Gayfer stated. "And they have indicated they are quite satisfied with its condition. Before going into the hills, I conferred with Robert Harris of the Water Rights Branch, with regard to the Associated Engineering report."

The superintendent said that Mr. Rolston was more than justified, on finding the leakage, in notifying the city officials of it. "In doing so, he is telling us that he has found this leakage, and, since the cause of it is not at once apparent, he is suggesting that we study it and find that cause."

Mr. Gayfer said that the city has a watchman on the spot, to keep watch on conditions at the dam. This man will now make daily checks on the leakage situation on Pentiction Number One, and, should this condition change markedly, or worsen, he will immediately notify city officials by short-wave radio.

With regard to analysis of the information he obtained yesterday, the superintendent said that no report on this can be made immediately, but that council will be informed as soon as the results are known.

Speaking of the leakage, and suggestions made by Mr. Rolston in connection with the Elsie Number Four dam, Mr. Gayfer said that he has already set a date when he and Robert Harris of the Water Rights Branch will visit the site to carry out a series of studies and tests. From these steps to improve the condition can be established.

Okanagan Falls Cub Pack Loses Two Officials

OKANAGAN FALLS — The last meeting before the summer recess of the group committee of the 1st O.K. Falls Cub Pack was held on Monday with a very small attendance.

The resignation of Cub Master Ed Brown was read and regretfully accepted. Mr. Brown has been cub master since he helped form the troop early in 1955. Assistant Cub Master E. Bazley will carry on his duties.

The treasurer, Mrs. G. Questel, also tendered her resignation, due to the fact that she is leaving the Falls.

The secretary, Mrs. G. Smith, will take over the treasurer's business until a new one is elected at the September meeting.

Possible Chance That Rain May Split Cherries

The current rainstorms possibly may split Okanagan cherries but conditions are a little unsettled to make a definite prediction, states the district horticulturist, M. P. D. Trunpou.

"Cherries are at the stage now where rain may cause splitting, but up to now the picture has not been too bad," he said.

Effects of rain will naturally vary with the different weather conditions.

In comparison with weather records over the last three years Pentiction precipitation seems generally favorable now.

In the period of June 25 to July 5 in 1935 a total of 27 inches was recorded, as compared with 43 inches for the same period this year.

Rainfall in the years 1954 and 1955 during that period was much higher with 1.27 inches and 1.20 inches respectively.

Order Inquest In Train Fall Death

CAMROSE, ALTA. (BUP) — The Camrose district coroner has ordered an inquest into the death of 18-year-old Leonard Morreseau, who was killed in a fall from a CNR work car near Hav Lakes, a few miles southeast of Edmonton.

Morreseau was a member of a work gang travelling to the scene of a five-car derailment at Bretona, 15 miles southeast of Edmonton.

CNR officials are investigating the reason for Morreseau riding atop the car. The inquest was ordered by coroner Dr. C. H. Smith, of Camrose.

Morreseau originally came from St. Lazare, Manitoba.

Game Research Now Needs Only White Tail Fawns

The UBC Zoology Department has sufficient mule deer but still need white tails for their research work on the habits of deer, Game Warden Horace H. Tyler pointed out this week.

This information came in a letter to Mr. Tyler from the head of the department, Dr. I. M. Cowan.

Fish and game enthusiasts in Pentiction, Oliver, Osoyoos and Keremeos-Cawston, over the last month have been collecting fawns for the university.

The research staff at the campus have been feeding the fawns various foods to determine their nutrient value for the growth of deer.

With this data the provincial game department hopes to improve the habitat of deer.

BUKICH MISSING

Naramata Boys Carry District's Colors In Big Soap Box Derby

Although the ten Naramata boys competing in the Western Canada Soap Box Derby at Mission City on Dominion Day did not capture top honors, they did return to the Okanagan with a number of lesser honors and prize awards.

The Naramata lads, with other soap box drivers, gathered from all over the west to compete in the biggest derby ever held in B.C.

This year's event set an all-time record for number of entries, 143, and number of communities represented, 34.

Ken Danderfer, age 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Danderfer, was winner in the three class B heats to be nosed out in the class finals by Billy McDonald of Abbotsford.

Ken as the recipient of the class B runner-up award received a Cameo Camera.

Another Naramata lad, Brian Hancock, age 11, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hancock, received the fourth prize, a sport jacket, in the class B finals.

Brian also had the distinction of making the fastest time for the 67 heats in the B class with a 23.24 record.

The Kintown runner-up award, a wrist watch, was won by Fred Newman, age 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Newman. The Kinsmen of Mission host the boys who are competing each year in the derby and two prizes are awarded annually for the boy with the best behaviour and showing the most co-operation while guests in Kintown.

Other Naramata boys made very good showing in the various heats.

Arthur Bailey came second in heat 19, class A; Larry Day, first in heat 20, class A; Garry Thomson, second in heat 25, class A; Mike Alcock, second in heat 44,

In the class B heats others winning along with Ken Danderfer were Brian Hancock and Fred Newman, first and second respectively in heat 51; Douglas Bowring, third in heat 7.

The Naramata boys were competing in their first derby away from home and the second since building their painted boxes for the Naramata Soap Box Derby staged here on June 17 under the sponsorship of the Naramata Naramata Board of Trade.

The committee in charge of this most successful local youth program is composed of Jack Buckley, school principal Grant Willan, and Stuart Berry, all three of whom travelled to Mission City with the young racers. The boxes were taken to the derby by Mr. Berry with his truck.

Plans are being made to take the boys and their boxes on wheels to the Oliver Apricot Sunday on July 18 and to the Pentiction Peach Festival on August 16 for the big parade.

He, like Mr. Gayfer, expressed optimism about the "lasting-out" of the supply, with ample for both orchards and the city without the use of pumps.

One Man's Opinion

BY HOWARD PATTON

I'm ashamed a hundred and nineteen times!

Here is just one instance. Wednesday morning a couple visited the Board of Trade office with a view to retiring in Penticton. The man was formerly a geologist with Standard Oil Co.

After getting the Penticton story he insisted on continuing up the valley to look over Kelowna and Vernon.

I ran into him later Wednesday afternoon.

"Still looking over our fair city?" I asked.

"Oh, we drove up to Kelowna, but took one look and came back," the man replied.

"I think he's lost his heart to Penticton," added his wife.

I was puffed with pride the rest of the afternoon—until I picked up The Penticton Herald and read about the 119 unsanitary privies in the city.

Now, what can I say when these prospective residents come in, fling the paper in my face and leave in a huff for Kelowna?

It was bad enough a couple of months ago when exaggerated news got out about dirty water in Penticton. Now we have official reports carrying greater condemnation... and no easy, quick or inexpensive remedy.

We have a bylaw to protect residents from bees. We are alleviating the smoke nuisance. We spray to kill mosquitoes and to save the yellow pine trees. But we allow 119 privies to spread annoyance and danger greater than all these other problems combined.

I know it is not easy for City Council to correct this situation. Part of it is tied in with a three-quarter million dollar sewer bylaw being prepared for a vote. It also touches the $60-a-month income of old-age pensioners. In addition, the city treasurer would have to "steal" several thousand dollars from some other spot in a tight city budget.

But if enough citizens are as ashamed as I am that this condition exists and as anxious that it be corrected... and if we make known to the Council that we would forego street oiling or paving or would meet an extraordinary levy... or something... to restore our pride in Penticton then surely they will find a way.

Council Debates Sidewalk Plan

When John Macklem, Winnipeg street, appeared before council, asking construction of a new concrete sidewalk on the east side of the "long block" from Eckhardt avenue to Fairview road, he precipitated a discussion on civic financing, but also gained assurance that the council will consider his application and petition.

Mr. Macklem, who presented a formal document with the signatures of the required number of property owners, asking for a local improvement plan, said that the owners were asking a ten-year repayment period in place of the five that the city has been invoking.

He told council that the policy in Saskatchewan is to float bonds to cover such items, the bonds to be of a term equal to the expected life of the improvement, customarily twenty years.

Both His Worship, Mayor Oscar Matson, and Alderman E. A. Titchmarsh explained that the present council is desirous of continuing with the pay-as-you-go arrangements for such items as the one under consideration, saving its borrowing power for items such as the new sewer project, that cannot be so financed.

Alderman J. G. Harris said that this was the second request his public works committee had had that day, and that, while they were pleased at the response to the sidewalk-building move initiated by council, it would still be necessary for the finance committee to loosen the purse strings to permit the continuance and expansion of the program, as the present allocation would not be big enough.

Alderman E. A. Titchmarsh, chairman of this committee, agreed that they would go into this as soon as possible, being as desirous as any on the council that the present encouraging wave of sidewalk construction should be continued.

Interest Abroad In Hummingbird

A hummingbird's choice of the Ken Davenport orchard as the place to hatch and rear a family has stirred the interest of a Scottish ornithologist.

The story of Mr. Davenport's find which appeared in The Herald and Vancouver papers was read by J. Cluckie of Dumfries, Scotland, at present visiting at the coast.

SEEKS INFORMATION

In a letter to Mr. Davenport he seeks information to carry back with him to the British Trust for Ornithology. Luckily, Mr. Davenport found an old hummingbird's nest while thinning in his orchard. He will send it to Mr. Cluckie.

In his letter, Mr. Cluckie speaks of Mr. Davenport's "wonderful good fortune, having a hummingbird's nest in your garden."

He says, "I am returning to Scotland on July 12 and I was hopeful that you would furnish me with a full account of your observations since first spotting this lovely little bird's kindness to you."

HABITS UNKNOWN

Mr. Cluckie states that little is known of the hummingbird's habits in the Old Country. He seeks details about "nest construction, material, egg numbers, color and details about incubation."

And he asks: "Does the cock-bird help to build and incubate?" Mr. Davenport, himself, is looking for some of the answers.

While eight hours sleep is considered the normal amount of adults, some people find that they need more or less than that. Whatever seems to be the individual need, it is wise to keep to that schedule regularly.

B.C. Tree Fruits Market Report

First shipments of Transparent apples are announced in the current release on marketing conditions by B.C. Tree Fruits Limited.

This is about three weeks earlier than last season.

Details regarding other crops and markets, as disclosed in the bulletin, are as follows:

CHERRIES

The peak of cherry harvesting in the Oliver-Osoyoos area was reached during the latter part of last week. This district has now tapered off with the greater volume now being delivered in the Penticton and Summerland districts. Showery weather has continued to affect total crop volume, although reports from the markets on arrivals continues reasonably satisfactory.

EARLY APPLES

First shipments of Transparent apples have already been made from the earlier producing areas. This is about three weeks earlier than in 1955. Carlot volume of early apples is anticipated by the end of this week.

APRICOTS

Very small quantities of apricots are currently moving from the Oliver and Osoyoos districts. With suitable weather during the next few days harvesting of this commodity should be well under way by July 11th or 12th. Present indications are that apricots are sizing well and exceptionally good quality is anticipated.

VEGETABLES

Cucumbers — This commodity is now available in carlot volume. Demand continues steady. Cabbage — Demand for early cabbage continues to exceed current supplies available. Deliveries of this commodity are, however, tapering off rapidly.

Tomatoes — First deliveries of Semis and Turnings are expected from the Osoyoos district today.

TOAST TO AMERICA

Russian Premier Bulganin had party boss Khrushchev toast America and President Eisenhower at a Fourth of July party at the American embassy in Moscow. Said Bulganin — "We send greetings to the American people and raise our glasses to the health of President Eisenhower."

Western U.S. Growers Facing Competition

Apple growers in the western part of the United States are faced with increased competition from crops grown in the eastern states, reports Harold Coppel, manager of the Washington State Apple Commission.

Chief source of competition, he estimates, lies in the better quality of fruit grown in the eastern part of the U.S., improved handling practices, packing methods, and a planned marketing program.

Mr. Coppel made these remarks in Wenatchee, Wash., after he had returned from the U.S. National Apple Institute Convention in Atlantic City.

The number of controlled atmosphere warehouses is on the increase in the East, Coppel stated. The New England area is building warehouses now which will bulge their "gas" storage capacity to more than a million bushels. They are being built primarily for the Red Delicious.

In New Jersey, two new "gas" storage warehouses are being built expressly for Golden Delicious.

Another indication of increased pressure from the East in the "spring" apple market is the construction of controlled atmosphere facilities in Michigan. They are being built primarily for McIntosh. This is the first time that Michigan has attempted to store apples in anything other than refrigeration warehouses. According to Coppel, Michigan "gas" storage capacity will reach 100,000 bushels at the end of this year.

Coppel, who heads up the Secretaries Promotional Committee of the NAI, also reported that research will be strongly emphasized in this year's NAI program.

Two projects will receive a major part of the attention. One is an NAI study in which apples are substituted for sweets in a normal diet, and the effects on dental and general health will be noted.

The other research project of consequence is a new approach in the search for scientific evidence of the role that apples play in safeguarding dental health.

Malic acid, a prominent component part of the apple's chemistry, has a neutralizing effect on mouth acids that attack tooth enamel. The nature and extent of this chemical action will highlight this new study.

Coppel also stated that the "Gateway To Health" film program will be carried on with as much vigor as this past year, and that the advertising program directed at doctors and dentists will also receive renewed effort. The NAI's program of educating grade and high school students on the dental health story was also reviewed and retained in the budget.

The NAI, which is supported by the various apple-producing regions of the country, will be working with a budget of approximately $85,000 this year.

During the coming apple marketing season, the Eastern regionals will join together to supply food editors of major newspapers and magazines with reprints, articles and pictures. This publicity program will complement the work that the Washington State Apple Commission has been doing for years with Washington apples.

When asked what impressed him most during his conversations at the NAI convention, Coppel said, "Two points stand out in my mind. First, is the impression I received from other regionals on their determination to get into the 'quality' field... and the second is their increasing realization of the importance of good sound promotion to do a real apple-selling job."

If sawdust is spread on glue that squeezes from a joint, it will absorb moisture and help in the removal of the excess glue.

Police Recapture Escaped Convicts

QUEBEC CITY, (BUP) — Two escaped convicts who were also wanted for a $12,000 bank robbery, were captured yesterday in a volley of police shots near the Quebec bridge — five miles west of here.

Provincial police said the pair — Fernand Dube, 28, and Gilles Hamel, 22, — were surrounded in dense bush after police were tipped off by an alert taxi driver that two nervous passengers left a police post on the bridge.

Police said the two men were definitely identified as the pair who held up the Yarmouche, Que., branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada the day before.

Gaston Martel, the third member of the trio, who escaped from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary in Montreal during a blood donor clinic last Friday, was still at large.

Police believed he was still in Montreal where 2,000 dollars was stolen at gunpoint by a man answering his description.

Council To Watch Any 'Encroachments'

Penticton city council agreed that it will keep a close watch on possible Public Utilities Commission encroachments on civic rights, following reading of a letter from the UBCM dealing with a Fraser Valley natural gas supply case. City Clerk said that already the PUV had made some feel-out enquiries covering the operation of the local cemetery. Recently operation of certain cemeteries, municipally owned, were placed under the commission's jurisdiction.

"I think that a clarification of the spheres of authority of governmental bodies is urgently required," said Alderman E. A. Titchmarsh.

Bank Clearings Here Released

The volume of business activity in Penticton and district during June of this year, as measured by cheques cleared through local banks, amounted to $5,720,885.

The Penticton Herald, following recent approval by the four Penticton banks connected with clearing house transactions — Bank of Commerce, Montreal, Nova Scotia and the Royal Bank — will publish each month a summary of clearing house data as an indicator or measure of local economic conditions.

The clearing house is a financial institution where the claims of individual banks against one another — notes and cheques — are offset daily and the balances settled in cash or by cheques on deposits which banks keep for that purpose in the clearing house.

Figures published are monthly totals of these daily transactions. Present clearing house is the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The banks have an agreement whereby they rotate quarterly the duty of accounting for clearings.

The clearing centre for the third quarter of this year will be the Royal Bank.

Comparative figures of clearings in Penticton for previous years are not available.

A simple definition of clearings is that they are a "clearing up" or settling of the banks daily debts and claims on each other through a financial institution called a clearing house.

In large metropolitan centres like Vancouver the clearing house is in a separate building, rather than rotating its premises among the various banks as is done here.

The importance of Penticton bank clearings is that they act as a sign-post to the monthly business transactions in the city. Thus they provide a barometer of local business activity and economic conditions.

West Faces Loss Of Strategic Bases

By Gene Patterson
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON — (UP) — The West is threatened today with loss of some of the strategic bases it has spent 10 years and millions of dollars building.

A surge of nationalism and the new Kremlin smile campaign are turning the trick as surely as an enemy air raid might. The result is a general's nightmare and a headache for Western diplomats.

In 13 strategic places in the world, from Iceland to Okinawa, the western bases, many of them built and manned solely by the United States, face possible shut-down or at least alteration to make them smaller and consequently less powerful.

Here is the situation:
Iceland: The victory of "Oust America" parties in last Sunday's elections may force mothballing of the 150 million U.S. air force base at Keflavik and expulsion of 4,000 American troops.

Ceylon: Leftist Premier Solomon W. R. D. Bandaranaike is in London stepping up pressure on his demands that Britain pull out of its naval bases at Trincomalee and Katunayake on grounds Ceylon wants to be neutral.

Tunisia: Premier Habib Bourguiba is demanding that France pull out its 45,000 troops now that his country is independent.

Morocco: The Moroccan government says it does not recognize the Franco-American pact providing for four large U.S. air force strategic bases in Morocco. Morocco said these would have to be re-negotiated with the newly-independent Moroccan government. Morocco also is pressuring France to pull its troops out of the country.

Suez: The last British occupation troops pulled out of the canal zone earlier this month. Egypt, under neutral-minded Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, took over control, and celebrated the fact with a display of communist-supplied arms.

Jordan: British influence has weakened with the ouster of Maj. Gen. John Bagot Glubb as Arab Legion commander. There still are British air bases in the country, however.

Aden: Nationalists are demanding self-government in the strategic and oil-rich protectorate.

MAKE TAMPER
It is quite easy to make a tamper, which is often required around the home. A tamper of the size to suit you can readily be made by using a broomstick or piece of pipe and a flower pot. First, the bottom of the flower pot is removed. Then, holes are drilled in the broomstick or pipe, in which large nails are placed. The flower pot is then placed on a board, partially filled with a good mix of cement, and then filled with cement.
Small pieces of chicken wire or other reinforcing material will strengthen the tamper.

Always store fir plywood panels flat. If stored on edge danger of warping is increased. Any wood will warp if stored so that its weight tends to bend it.

Handy Spice Rack In Fir Plywood Evening's Job For Home Builder

A spice shelf that can be slid aside for convenient storage can be made in an evening and installed in a cupboard in the kitchen.

A handy man can cut the parts from fir plywood, assemble and install this shelf unit or you can have the sliding shelf built into a new wall cabinet.

The rack eliminates groping around on deep shelves for small tins, that invariably get lost among larger containers. The sliding unit uses existing space, brings spice containers readily to hand and leaves items stored behind easily accessible.

Details of how the rack operates are indicated here. Dimensions can be worked out to fit the cupboard in which it is installed. Note that the back of the shelf unit extends up behind the guide at the top and down behind the track at the bottom. In the cabinet shown, all parts are cut from fir plywood except the guide strip at the top, which is nailed to the underside of the shelf above.

To ensure smooth working of this unit, the base track on which the shelf unit slides and the slots into which the unit fits should be waxed. The guide strip and base track should be cut to a length that will ensure the unit can be moved far enough to either side to uncover the shelves behind.

Anyone can build this entire kitchen cabinet of fir plywood with no special tools other than a hammer, saw and screwdriver required to turn out a professional-looking job.

Air Conditioning Began With Man's First Swim

The first man who took a bath did it to get cool rather than to get clean.

At least that's the opinion of one air conditioning enthusiast who prefers to think that primitive men chose comfort before they chose cleanliness.

Certainly the efforts of both humans and animals to keep cool during the warm summer months have for centuries been characterized by trips to the beach, watering spa, or the old water hole. Perhaps the desire to keep clean really was a by-product of the desire to be cool.

But it was not until the brilliant and stubborn human race decided to stay where it was and let the cooling effect of the beach come to it that the first glimmerings of a future age of air conditioning could be seen.

A Roman Emperor in 200 A.D. and a Caliph of Baghdad in 755 A.D. sat at home and sent slaves to the mountains to gather snow for them. The Emperor rolled in it while the more sedate Caliph packed it between the walls of his house.

As the mechanical genius of western society began to flower during the Renaissance, Leonardo Da Vinci, the great artist-inventor, conceived a ventilating device driven by a water wheel for the boudoir of his patron's wife, who also liked to keep cool.

Some 160 years later, the famous Christopher Wren turned his hand to the problem, designing a ventilating system without a fan for the English House of Parliament, and three-quarters of a century after that a mechanical ally-minded Frenchman, Dr. J. T. Desaguliers, designed a centrifugal fan to make the Parliament system ventilate.

It only required one able-bodied man exerting 3,000 foot pounds of work a minute to turn this fan, according to report. The report doesn't mention the name of the Goliath who performed the feat of strength, but he was probably the warmest man in the building.

With the technological revolution of the 19th century, men's minds turned again to frozen water as the solution, but now they were willing to try to make it themselves. Dr. John Gorrie invented the first ice machine in this country in the middle 1800's.

Huge Scarecrow Good Ornament

A man-sized scarecrow that will realistically wave its arms in the breeze can be cut from a fir plywood panel. An attractive garden ornament, it could be effective in frightening birds.

Shape and coloring of the man are up to individual preference and artistic ability, but here's a design that's, to say the least, a little out of the ordinary.

The form is easy to draw on a plywood panel that has been squared off as shown. Half-inch fir plywood is recommended both for sturdiness and because fir plywood is bonded with waterproof glue and will stand up to weathering. Given a good primer underneath it can readily be painted in realistic colors.

Method of attaching the arms so that they will swing freely in the wind is detailed. The hands can be cut from a piece of quarter inch plywood and the arms from three-quarter inch stock. The arm is slotted at the wrist so that the hand is turned at an angle to catch the wind. It can be attached with screws and glue.
If the scarecrow were mounted as a weathervane free on a pivot so that it would swing continually into wind the motion effect of the arms would be increased. Attaching the arms so that they pivot close to the elbow will also increase the swing.

as a means of cooling tropical fever patients. And even as late as 1890 baskets for ice were built into the ventilating system of Carnegie Hall in New York City, to provide cooling for summer-time patrons.

It remained for a young man in his twenties, Willis H. Carrier to put the capstone on centuries of effort and thought with his development in 1902 of the first scientific air conditioning system. Carrier was one of the group of authentic American inventive geniuses who flourished in this country around the turn of the 19th century and the early 20th.

Perhaps those who preceded him were thinking too exclusively of cooling. Carrier was searching for a way to control humidity and in doing so found the simple answer that put all of the parts of the puzzle together.

Interestingly enough, given the early connection between cooling and cleanliness, the damp cooling coils removed dirt and dust, foreshadowing an age when the housekeeping problems would be greatly reduced.

Once the method was established, the technology of the industry moved swiftly. Ten years later Carrier laid down the basic formulae on which all air conditioning efforts have since been based.

In another ten years the company he founded had developed the centrifugal refrigerating machine. This was the first completely safe, low-pressure cooling device and it opened the way to the air conditioning of large spaces.

Then in the 1930's came Carrier's Conduit Weathermaster System which made year-round conditioning practical in multi-story business buildings.

In 1927 Carrier and his associates developed the first forced warm air heating unit for homes, and it was designed specifically for addition of a cooling section to provide year-round air conditioning.

With the post-war era the age of complete home comfort began to arrive. More and more people were purchasing room air conditioners and getting their first limited experience with air conditioning. A year before Willis Carrier's death in 1950, the company he founded put on the market the first year-round home air conditioning unit combining gas heating and electrical cooling in a single compact cabinet.

Today the air conditioning industry is moving into its period of greatest growth. It has been predicted, in fact, that within five years half of all new houses will be air conditioned upon construction.

When that time comes, stubborn man will be well along the road to achieving his ambition of staying home and making the effect of the seashore come to him. Since we've also achieved the benefits of running water, bathtubs, basins and soap, and since air conditioning filters air, there's no problem of cleanliness either.

Heavy Work At Patrol Leaders' Training Course

About two dozen junior Scout leaders camped under canvas at Glenfleur, north of Naramata, during the Dominion Day weekend to qualify for their Bronze Arrowhead. Four patrols were formed from the 23 Scouts who represented Pentiction, Summerland and Naramata.

The Bronze Arrowhead course is designed to make patrol leaders better able to help the boys in their patrols. It is a preliminary to the more detailed Silver Arrowhead course.

Camp Chief was Gwyn Russell of the 1st Naramata Troop. Assisting were Scout Commissioner J. B. Laidlaw, Scoutmaster Irvin Hobden of the 3rd Pentiction Troop, S.M. Dr. D. V. Fisher of the 1st Summerland, S.M. Jack Stocks of the 1st Pentiction.

A fairly heavy schedule of work was set for the trainees. Reville was at 6:30 a.m.

Training consisted of practical tests such as knotting, lashing, first aid and signalling, plus lectures on the patrol system and hints on how to make it work effectively.

The evenings were highlighted by field games and campfires. The scouts and leaders slept Friday and Saturday night under canvas, returning home Sunday, July 1.

Season For Drowning Upon Us

"It is almost easier to tell that summer has come to Canada once more by looking at the headlines in newspapers reporting the latest drowning victims, than by noticing the new leaves on the trees," says Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada.

"More than a thousand Canadians lose their lives every year through drowning, and attention at this time should be called, not only to the conventional rules of safety which should be observed, especially by swimmers and vacationers, but also to the all-important matter of artificial respiration."

"It is more than 16 years since Health Magazine first called attention to many serious misconceptions which arose in connection with the problem of drowning and artificial respiration," he says.

"There has been a general and mistaken opinion that if a person is under water for more than four or five minutes, artificial respiration is useless. This is incorrect. There are numerous instances of persons having been revived even after being submerged for as long as half an hour."

"Another misconception has to do with signs of death. In drowning cases the ordinary signs of death do not count. Victims of drowning accidents have been revived in spite of the fact that for comparatively long periods, they have appeared to be dead. For perhaps several hours the victim has not breathed, there has been no pulse, no detectable heart beat, and no eye reflex. These are the ordinary accepted signs of death."

CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Two small children were burned to death when they were trapped in the blazing bedroom of an apartment at Woodstock, Ontario. Police identified the children as two-year-old Lewin Trickett and her one-year-old brother George. The mother — Mrs. Vernon Trickett — who was visiting in a neighboring apartment, made a vain attempt to rescue her children.

Artificial respiration must be continued for a minimum of four hours, or until rigor mortis sets in. Attention to these rules may save numerous lives this summer," Dr. Bates concluded.

No Appreciable Drop Noticed In Apples

Though they are not sizing any too well in some orchards of this area, Lamberts continue to show the best cherry crop prospects.

With some early cherries in, and Bings under way, it is reported that splitting has been serious in a few lots, though almost negligible in others.

In Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Okanagan Falls, and Keremeos-Cawston areas, other tree fruits are reported to be sizing satisfactorily, and so far no appreciable drop has been noticed in apples.

The fortnightly Horticultural Newsletter, released by the Department of Agriculture, issued at the close of June, continues as follows with regard to this district, and other areas as indicated:

Tomatoes have developed very well in the Keremeos-Cawston area. First matures are expected in a couple of weeks time.

No signs of apple scab have been detected and powdery mildew appears to be negligible. Some fire-blight has started up but the situation is well in hand. More codling moth activity has been noticed than in the past couple of years. Some green apple aphids is showing up, and European red mite infestations are heavy in a few orchards where no Ovotran was used in pre-blossom sprays. The rust mite is causing the most concern and is very general this year.

OLIVER AND OSOYOOS
As reported June 26: The weather remains cool with considerable rain.

More trees are showing the effects of the past winter every day. On the healthy trees the fruit is sizing well. Other trees which had been sizing to the same degree in recent weeks have now stopped and in many cases the fruit has fallen off.

Thinning is now nearly finished and the growers are not into cherries. Much of the Bing crop has been badly split. As yet the other varieties have not been seriously hurt by the rain. Harvest of early apples will probably commence during the first week in July.

Red mites, rust mites, green apple aphids, mealy plum aphids and pear psylla are causing the most concern at the moment. Diseases are still of no apparent importance.

Ground crops look vigorous and healthy. Potato aphids have caused some concern in the past few days. Cucumbers have been harvested during the past few days and some tomatoes should be ready in early July.

Kootenay, Lower Arrow Lakes and Creston:

As reported June 25: Cool, unsettled weather has been general during the past two week period. Strawberries have been moving in limited quantity during the past week and should be moving in volume by about July 1. Fruit rot has shown up in the

Realty Operator Gives Self Up

WEST VANCOUVER, (BUP)—A West Vancouver real estate operator, hunted for the past six months on a $6,800 theft charge, surrendered to police yesterday.

Ball of $2,500 was set for Morley Best Jones, 32, former operator of the now-defunct Coastal Estates Ltd., when he appeared in police court.

He was remanded to July 12, by Magistrate Oscar Orr only 12 hours after he gave himself up. He was accompanied by his lawyer.

Diabetes is frequently a disease of middle age. It is more common among those who are overweight than among the slimmer types.

sent look excellent.

Green aphids and rust mite are causing concern to many growers and control sprays have been applied. A few codling moth eggtraces have been noticed and the second cover sprays for codling moth have been applied. Wireworms have caused damage to some asparagus fields.

Kelowna:
As reported June 28: The weather since the last report has been cool with several showers. The last few days have been warm.

The small cherry crop is now turning color. A few of the early varieties will be picked this week but the main crop of Lamberts are a full week to ten days away. Very little splitting occurred to date. Local strawberries are available in small quantities. A fairly heavy drop has occurred in McIntosh apples; however, additional hand thinning required in most blocks is well under way. Bartlett pear thinning is nearing completion. Leaf roller did considerable damage to this crop. Young Delicious and later varieties of apple trees injured by the frost last fall are deteriorating rapidly.

Disease problems are negligible but insects, particularly rust mite, are very troublesome. Cool weather has checked the growth of vegetable crops during the past two weeks, but development of most crops is still well ahead of last year. Field tomatoes are showing a fairly heavy set of fruit, and some fields are exhibiting fruits over two inches in diameter. Fall-planted onions are starting to bulb up and spring sown onions are growing well. Onion crops in general are a good two weeks ahead of last year. Silverskin crops are heavy while other onion crops are moderate. Asparagus shipments will terminate this week and tonnage have been lower than usual. Quality has been off owing to frost damage in the crowns. Cabbage and lettuce are moving in small volume, spinach is cleaned up. Small shipments of bunch beets and bunch onions have been made. Hothouse tomatoes and cucumbers have been moving in volume. Aphid and mite activity on vegetable crops is at a minimum. Rhizoctonia has caused some loss in bean fields and has delayed growth in others. Pink Root has caused some reduction in fall-planted onion stands. Mildew is showing on onions in some fields and sprays are being applied. Several cases of Leaf Roll in potatoes have been reported.

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:
During the past two weeks the weather has remained cool and cloudy with occasional showery periods. Generally speaking, this has been good growing weather but it has interfered with growers' spray schedules and interrupted haying operations.

The small cherry crop, consisting mainly of Lamberts, has so far escaped serious cracking losses. Cherries are not sizing too well. What apricots there are have been sizing well and the fruit should be of good quality. However, the crop is very light, being estimated at around 20 percent of a normal year. The peach crop is centered mainly in the Summerland area. Here again individual fruits are sizing well but the overall crop in the district will only be around 50 percent of a full crop. Italian prunes have set a medium crop and if this develops properly we could have as many as last year. Right now Rust Mites are very prevalent on prunes and are causing the foliage to roll and lose its natural gloss. Apples have finished their June drop and are making good size. The McIntosh crop should be heavier than last year, but all other apple varieties should be down from last year. Newtowns are badly off and most of the Newtown trees under twenty years are wholly or partially killed. Young Delicious up to ten years old are now beginning to show effects of trunk and crotch injury. Rust mites have been developing on Delicious and are causing some bronzing and rolling of foliage. Red Mites are also building up but mainly in orchards where Ovotran was not used at the pink.

Vegetable crops are showing good development in the Westbank area, most patches being well ahead of last year at this time.

Here is the royalty for the Apricot Fundae principle which, according to advance reports, will take over in Oliver in the near future. July 18 is the date for that centre's big celebration. Pictured here alone is the Queen of the Fundae, Caroline Miller; and the other picture shows her two princesses, Jackie Hamilton (left) and Loreen Weins (right). The judges appear to have made a happy selection, which is keeping with the whole attractive program that day.

Parliament Hears Plea That Queen Live In Canada For Brief Periods

By Keith Davidson

BUP Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, July 4 — (BUP) — The Queen should live in Canada three to five months every four years, Wallace Nesbitt (PC-Ontario) said in the Commons this week.

He made the suggestion as the House examined the departmental appropriations of Secretary of State Roch Pinard.

He urged the government to give consideration to recommending the idea to Her Majesty.

"The Queen, Nesbitt said, might consider coming to this country 'at least for the opening of each new parliament' and then taking up residence for three, four or five months. The normal life of a parliament is four years."

Nesbitt thought it would be a good idea if the Queen resided in different parts of the Commonwealth at various times.

He also urged the government to "carefully explore the idea of exchanging governors-general with other members of the Commonwealth."

Nesbitt said he didn't think it would be wise for the government to continue appointing Canadians to the post of governor-general. That, he said, might "very well lead to the appointments being purely political in nature."

Governor-General Vincent Massey is the first Canadian to hold the vice-regal post.

Some parts of the empire — such as Nigeria and the Gold Coast — were not yet members of the Commonwealth, but would be eventually, Nesbitt noted. He foresaw the day when the Queen's representative in Canada would come from such countries.

Some members of the Commonwealth, like India, did not have the same relationship to the crown as others, he said. However, a practice of exchanging governors-general might draw such countries as India and Pakistan "into somewhat closer relationships with the rest."

Allan Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North) wondered how an Indian or Pakistani, if named governor-general to Canada, would "ever get past the minister of immigration."

John Pallett (PC-Peel) pressed Pinard to recommend to the government that Canadians who contributed in any field to the development of their country "be given some form of recognition."

John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) supported Pallett. He asked what had become of the Canada medal, first proposed in 1947 by the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King to "set apart those Canadians who had made a great and abiding and significant contribution to their country."

"The Canada medal, Diefenbaker noted, had never been awarded to anybody."

Diefenbaker also wanted to know how "Dominion" had been removed from the country's great seal and simply the appellation "Canada" substituted. He said that "Dominion" had been "surprisingly and deviously" deleted in too many cases "without parliament having anything to say."

The country's correct name, Diefenbaker said, is "The Dominion of Canada." Minutes later, Diefenbaker's colleague, Nesbitt, drew a laugh when he referred to the country simply as "Canada." He hastily added: "I should say, 'Dominion of Canada.'"

Pinard, disagreed. He said the British North American Act had established "one dominion," to be known as "Canada."

Wilfrid Diefenbaker (PC-Quebec) urged the government to issue

Increased Okanagan Fruit Sales To Caribbean Area Now Expected

The announcement by Trade Minister Howe, that controls provided by the British West Indies Trade Liberalization Scheme had been removed with respect to fresh apples, is most welcome to the valley's fruit industry.

While aggregate shipments to Trinidad, Barbados, British Guiana and Jamaica could not be deemed large, there has been an increasing demand in recent years resultant upon the improvement in economic conditions throughout the area.

The withdrawal of regulation, which had been related to average shipments of 1946, 1947 and 1948, should result in a substantial increase in Okanagan sales for 1956, preliminary specifications of the trade having been well in excess of the allocation given by Ottawa under the scheme.

Shipping facilities present somewhat of a restrictive element as regards full advantage of the potential demand, however.

Delegate Chosen For Municipalities Meet

SUMMERLAND — The Okanagan Valley and Summerland will be represented at the Annual Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities on August 19-23 in Hamilton, Ontario, by Reeve F. E. Atkinson.

"Municipal Canada Looking Ahead," has been announced as the subject for the convention, as based on the Royal Commission's findings regarding Canada's economic prospects, in particular, the effects of urban growth.

The topic will be broken down for discussion under the following heads: housing, streets and highways, public transportation, urban water supply, culture and recreation, municipal personnel, administrative organization, finance and taxation, and other matters relating to urban expansion.

Pinard told Fernand Girard (Ind-Lapointe) that the Civil Service Commission was endeavoring to give bilingual Canadians better representation in the civil service, but it was difficult to decide how much of a working knowledge of both official languages a civil servant needed to be classed as bilingual.

ASK BETTER GRANTS

NEW WESTMINSTER, (BUP) — New Westminster city council has endorsed a Prince George resolution calling on the federal government for increased grants-in-aid for new hospital construction.

The resolution will go before the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities for final approval.

The petition points out that provincial grants-in-aid are much higher than the federal contributions. The resolution seeks an equalization on the part of the parent government.

Motel Mayfair Fine Addition To City's Tourist Facilities

The formal opening this week of the Motel Mayfair marks another fine addition to the modern accommodation available to the touring public while visiting in the city of Penticton.

Motel Mayfair, located on Main street south in the Skaha Lake area, was built by owner John Choma. It comprises a total of fifteen units, pumice block construction and finished in contemporary design blending vee-matched cedar siding and stucco. Two of the units have two bedrooms with the hide-away bed-lounge will accommodate seven or eight people comfortably. The rest of the units have one bedroom, living room and kitchen. The units are arranged in U-shape facing the west with landscaped driveways.

The interiors are spacious with ample wardrobe space. Blond and limed oak blend with a color scheme of cherry and grey throughout. The kitchens are furnished with wrought iron and arborite dining sets and are fully equipped for housekeeping with electric ranges and refrigerators. There is hot water heating in all units. Another feature of the court is a central laundry for use of guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Choma came to Penticton in 1955 from Lac du Bonnet in Manitoba where Mr. Choma operated a farm machinery business. They purchased the N. Schaber orchard on Main street south where the Motel Mayfair is now located. Not a stranger to the problems of providing accommodation for the public, Mr. Choma had previously owned and operated an apartment block in Vancouver for a number of years.

Big Price Jump In Agricultural, Consumer Goods

OTTAWA, (BUP) — Both consumer and farm product prices took a big jump during the month of May according to latest figures of price indices released this week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The consumer price index — Ottawa's way of keeping track of the rise and fall in prices — took its biggest jump in several years during May.

D. B. S. figures show that the index rose from 116.6 to 117.8 between the beginning of May and June 1.

The bureau reports that the sharp rise was almost due entirely to higher prices for foods during May.

May figures for agricultural products continued to record an overall price advance.

For that month the Farm Products Price Index jumped from 224.5 to 225.3.

Largest price increase during the month was in animal products which are up 1.5 per cent.

The bureau's figure show that the gains were largest in live-stock and fresh meats.

Vegetable products rose almost one percent and the index showed higher prices for boots, shoes, wire and wire rods.

The statistical report showed that the month's price advance would have been greater if it had not been retarded by a weakness in the United States dollar.

This was the cause of reduced returns from export commodities — notably newsprint, woodpulp, gold, silver and raw materials generally.

A further indication of the upward trend in agricultural commodities is seen in the figures of the Index of Farm Product prices at terminal markets during the four week period from May 25 to June 22.

For that period this index recorded a 2.3 percent rise to 217.5 from 212.7.

Gains were mostly concentrated in the animal products sector, where the index rose 3.6 percent.

"In addition to spring lambs which came on the western market at sharply higher prices, major gains were noted for hogs, eggs and western steers, while eastern cheesemilk moved up slightly," the Bureau said.

"Partially offsetting were lower prices for western calves, and in the east for poultry, lambs, calves, steers and butterfat."

The index for field products rose slightly. Price gains were recorded for western potatoes, eastern wheat, potatoes, hay and rye.

Declines in the field group were registered by western flax, hay and rye and eastern barley, tobacco and corn.

Big Freight Trucks Shift Locations Here

Announcement was made to city council on Tuesday night by the firms of Expressways and Cascade Motor Freight that they wish in future to be found at the former O. C. ## Promenade!

By H.G.A.

By H.G.A.

Two very successful dances have been held since the last column had been written, these two being — the dance on the Super-Valu parking lot when nine squares took part in the square dancing and about 40 couples enjoyed the round dancing. An application of soap flakes made the blacktopping just right for dancing, and the cool of the evening all added to the enjoyment. There were a large number of spectators also enjoying the evening.

We had some visitors from Waley, in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and enjoyed the calls of the visiting caller, Elsie Barrit, Percy Coulter, Glen Ashcroft and Jim Jenkins were the local callers in charge of the program. Proceeds went to the UCT group.

Another successful dance was held in Gyro Park bandshell on Wednesday night when four squares took part. Another surprise was in store for the local dancers when we had visitors from Los Angeles, Virginia and Jim Sollee joined in the fun, and Jim treated us to some fine calling. Before leaving the dance they were loud in their praises for having had the opportunity to participate in some dancing and to enjoy our hospitality. Local callers were again in charge of the program, and they deserve a large vote of thanks for the part they play in keeping the dances progressing at a lively pace.

From the Pairs and Squares of Summerland we have word that they will hold a regular "party-nite" in their Playground Park at West Summerland (or in the Youth Centre if the weather misbehaves), on Saturday, July 4. The usual fine brand of entertainment is in store for the dancers. On July 31 the Pairs and Squares will be sponsoring a dance in the Kaleden Hall when Les Gotcher will be present. You will all remember Les Gotcher of Los Angeles. He is Mr. "Sets-in-Order" himself and we are fortunate to have the opportunity to dance to his calling.

Other dances arranged for the immediate future are — the Fundae dance at Oliver on July 18, and a dance on the Super-Valu parking lot on each Saturday night from now till August 11, also a dance on each Wednesday night in Gyro Park (except on Wednesday, July 18). All dancers are asked to come and on-join the dances and support this activity. Now is the time to practice up for the Third B.C. Annual Square Dance Jamboree next month. We will have many visitors from far and near and there should be a large number of local dancers taking part too. Lets all have fun by remembering that "Square Dancing Is Fun".

Mrs. Gwyn Richards and her three children of Trail visited her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Don Sutherland last Thursday and Friday on her way to Vancouver, and stayed overnight Monday on her return trip to Trail.

Eddie O'Neal of Victoria flew in on last Friday's plane to spend the weekend visiting friends in Kaleden.

Danny Fretz with Ken Phipps and Miss Joan Graham of Penticton, spent the long weekend in Kamloops.

Tom Hawtree, who is employed with the Kenyon Construction Company on a job in Trail, was home over the Dominion holiday weekend.

Miss Vera Coss left on Monday morning for Victoria where she will be attending Normal School this summer. Miss Mary King accompanied Miss Coss to Victoria, where she will visit for the next few weeks.

Mrs. H. Carter of Penticton is presently visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller.
